High Tech Voting Guide for the 110th Congress

2007 – 2008

Information Technology Industry Council
Leading Policy for the Innovation Economy

ITI's High Tech Voting Guide is one of only two business group ratings to be published in the Almanac of American Politics. The guide serves as both a report card for Members of Congress on key tech issues, and as a reflection of ITI's legislative priorities during the 110th Congress (2007-2008).

Today, ITI continues to represent diverse companies on the cutting edge of technology, and its mission today is identical to that of its founders in 1916 – to shape policy issues that create an environment in which its companies can thrive and compete globally. Specifically, ITI supports policies that:

- Enhance the global competitiveness of the US tech industry
- Reduce barriers that stifle innovation
- Create access to new and emerging markets
- Promote e-commerce expansion
- Protect consumer choice
- Support investment in present and future generations of the US workforce

The Information Technology Industry Council (ITI) was founded in 1916 as the National Association of Office Appliance Manufacturers. The Association underwent several reorganizations in response to the new challenges facing the rapidly changing and expanding US tech industry up through 1973, when it became known as the Computer Business Equipment Manufacturers Association (CBEMA). In 1994, CBEMA underwent another reorganization, and was re-named the Information Technology Industry Council. The new name, which ITI retains today, better reflects the dynamic IT industry as it currently exists – consisting of manufacturers and suppliers of computers, telecommunications, business equipment, software, and IT services.
